BREATHING UNDERWATER

DIRECTED BY ERIC LAMHÈNE

Drama — Luxembourg/Belgium 2024 — 100 min. — 1st Feature — French, Luxembourgish

Set in the secretive world of a women's shelter, BREATHING UNDERWATER tells the story of Emma (Carla Juri, in a career-best performance) who is whisked away in the dead of night, covered in bruises and unexpectedly pregnant. As she grapples with her pregnancy and her emotional shackles to her husband, Emma rediscovers lost facets of herself through her unlikely camaraderie and strife with the women and children of the shelter. Individual traumas intertwine and despite their differences, a delicate sisterhood emerges as they push one another to fight for their self worth and independence.

A captivating ensemble of professional and non-professional actors bring the shelter to life - Khadij (Véronique Tshanda Beya), a no-nonsense Congolese mother of two; Sascha (Alessia Raschella), a young mother with a devil-may-care attitude; and Esperanza (Esperanza Martin), a "crazy" Spanish woman trying desperately to re-gain custody of her daughters. Emotionally raw, empathetic and intensely honest, Breathing Underwater is a deeply moving and ultimately cathartic display of women's strength.

While in the process of filming a provocative feature about the xenophobic arson attacks on German migrant residences in the 1990s, a genuine Quran goes up in flames. The incident deeply shakes the Arab extras on set, who immediately point fingers at the director, making accusations of racism. Caught in this confrontational crossfire is production intern, Elif (24) as everybody involved has layered motivations and agendas at play: the Turkish-German director Yigit (42) and producer Lilith (46) stand on one side of the divide, while extras Said (25), Mustafa (32), and Majid (48) stand on the other. The tensions are getting worse when original film footage goes missing, an apartment key disappears, and an unidentified caller starts contacting the crew. Amid these unsettling events, Elif finds herself increasingly drawn into a whirlwind of shame and suspicion.
