PLUTO
FILM

“ A novelist invites his first great love to his picturesque country house in order to show her a play based on their relationship. The encounter sparks an emotional journey through four decades of love.

Synopsis

Ten years after their upsetting break-up Sarah visits David at his summer house. He wants her to help him to finish his play, but when he tells her that it's about their relationship, she wants him to abandon it. For decades, the two have been united by a web of paradoxes. Both wanted to be loved by the other, despite their faults, questionable morals and lack of control. They have been addicted to each other's company and yet driven each other crazy. But even after all these years, despite anguish and dispute, they recognize that their relationship is still deeply grounded in humour, respect - and love.
