“ Does Bedridden have enough courage to become as absurd as his imagination? ”

Synopsis

On an ordinary morning, to a 26-year-old writer's utter indifference, everything stops. He takes the freeze as a fateful sign to become Bedridden to protest the life that has deprived him of his identity. However, Tsolmon, his fiancée, sees this action as egocentric nonsense. Does Bedridden have enough courage to become as absurd as his imagination?
